*The HOBET is an assessment tool used to help you identify if a job in the health care field is right for you.

Our experience working with adult learners at a wide range of skills levels enables us to identify your skill level and help you improve on those skills.

VRABE is a recognized leader in providing instruction to adults seeking English proficiency, basic reading, math and writing, in addition to offering high school completion options, and college transition classes that help students with the academic skills needed to succeed in the Connecticut Community College system.

The funding for this program is made possible by a grant from the Nellie Mae Foundation. Vernon Regional Adult Based Education thanks Manchester Community College for their support of this program.

Program Design

Successful entry into many health care programs requires the completion of college level English and Math courses.

If you need a refresher on academic skills to prepare you to apply to a health care program, then let Vernon Regional Adult Basic Education help you begin your journey to a rewarding career in the health care professions or industry.

The 15- week Health Care Career Prep course is designed for individuals who are applying for a certificate, associates, or bachelors degree in the health care field. The evening program provides students with the skills necessary to achieve academic success in the courses required to enter the Community College's healthcare programs.
